[17455] Green, Michael (Editor). War Stories of the Tankers: American Armored Combat, 1918 to Today. Minneapolis, MN: Zenith Press, 2008. First Edition. 8vo - over 7¾" - 9¾" tall. Hardback. New / New. ISBN: 0-7603-3297-5. These are the war stories few can tell, the harrowing first-hand accounts of armoured combat, from the days of the century's first tanks to the latest encounter on the streets of Baghdad. Here are the still-vivid impressions of the brave young men who fought in the mud and trenches of no-man's land during World War I. Here are the stories of green American tankers taking on massive and well-armoured German Tigers or fighting through a screaming sea of Red Chinese soldiers in Korea. And here are the personal tales of American tankers defending Western Europe from the threat of Soviet tanks during the Cold War. From the American boys who pitted their tanks against the Viet Cong in the jungles of Southeast Asia to the soldiers who put their lives on the line every day in Iraq, these are the heroes of our time, taking that rare moment to tell us what it is like to face the enemy in tank warfare. £10.00

[13435] Marshall, Rosalind K. Henrietta Maria: The Intrepid Queen. London: Her Majesty's Stationery Office, 1990. First Edition. Paperback. As New ISBN: 0-11-290479-3. Henrietta Maria was only 15 when she left France to marry Charles I. For many of his subjects she was his evil genius, a self-willed, interfering Roman Catholic, capable of ruining them all. For Charles himself she was a delightful consort, as lively as she was unpredictable. Neither of them saw the growing troubles around them but when civil war erupted, Henrietta threw herself wholeheartedly into fighting for the royal cause. She travelled Holland in an attempt to pawn the Crown jewels and even marched at the head of her own army. Her heroic efforts and hair-raising voyages read like an adventure story in their own right. £7.00

[14191] Young, Martin. Trojan Horses: Extraordinary Stories of Deception Operations in the Second World War. London Disguise Deception: Mandarin, 1991. Paperback. As New ISBN: 0-7493-0603-3. Tells the story of the men and women who conspired to deceive and confound the enemy during World War II. From North Africa to Normandy, from the jungles of South East Asia to the shores of Sicily, a small group of deception planners, aided by experienced soldiers and civilians, turned their attention to outwitting the enemy. A subtle combination of guile, disinformation and illusion was intended to persuade the enemy to commit his men and resources in the wrong place and at the wrong time, by such means as dummy tanks and guns and more sophisticated deception, culminating in the triumph of the D-Day landings. £6.00

[15316] Ziegler, Philip. Soldiers: Fighting Men's Lives, 1901-2001. London: Chatto and Windus, 2001. First Edition. 8vo - over 7¾" - 9¾" tall. Hardcover. Very Good / Very Good. ISBN: 0-7011-6954-0. An in-depth study of the character and spirit of soldiers. This book takes as its starting point interviews with Chelsea Pensioners whose lives in the army span the 20th century, and who have seen action from World War I to Korea. Author Philip Ziegler is fascinated by the value that war veterans share, which the army must have inculcated in them: self-discipline, acceptance of risk and pain, patriotism, and solidarity with their fellow soldiers. Of course there is sometimes bigotry, narrow-mindedness and even blinkered stupidity. Ziegler also addresses the question of whether army values are still admired in modern British society. Above all though, this book celebrates the lives and attitudes of soldiers and comes to an understanding of the ethos that means so much to them. £8.00
